Ron's plans for his vegetarian backyard find were rather specific: road racing. Seems a bunch of his buddies were into the track thing, but they all took the easy way out and built Mustangs for the mission. Of all the Fords he's owned in his 65 years, apparently none have been Mustangs, so Ron was determined to best his buddies with a Falcon, and got down to laying out the project in his head. His original idea was to simply "slip in a 302, four-speed and go." Yeah, well, so much for cheap intentions. ConsumerAffairs is not a government agency.
