In this manner, we have provided you with a list of all the muhurats as followed along with their elementary nature. One thing to keep in mind is that all of these muhurats are approximately 48 minutes long. Muhurta is a Sanskrit word derived from two other words- Muhu and Rta. Muhu means immediate or a moment, and Rta refers to an order. In RigVeda, Rta implies the yearly order of the different seasons. There is an elaborate explanation of Muhurta in RigVeda. One Muhurta is 30 Kalas or 48 minutes. Each Kala is equal to 30 Kashta, which is the same as 1.6 minutes. Apart from RigVeda, there are references to Muhurta in Satapatha Brahmana and Taittiriya Brahmana. As per Brahmanas, Muhurta is a division of time, which is either one-thirtieth of a day or 48 minutes. In Taittiriya Brahmana, there is a description of fifteen Muhurtas. They include Vijnanam, Samjnananam, Janad, Sabhijanat, Samkalpamanam, Prakaalpanam, etc. In Manusmiriti, one Kastha refers to as 18 Nimisas. Nimisas means blinking of the eyes. Why is it considered so important to choose an auspicious Muhurat in order to pursue any new work in it? Actually, the reason behind this is believed that anything we do or pursue is with the motive of succeeding in it, be it any ritual, task, project, venture or relationship. According to Vedic Astrology, we attain success and prosperity in any work or task only when we carry out that task during a Shubh Muhurat calculated according to the placement of the planets and nakshatras or constellations. That is why the importance of auspicious Shubh Muhurat has been glorified.
