Apple CEO Tim Cook blames the problems in China on the extremely successful launch of the Apple iPhone 6 and Apple iPhone 6 Plus in 2014. Apple had just increased the iPhone screen to 4.7-inches, and introduced its first 5.5-inch phablet. Chinese consumers went gaga over the larger screened phones and sales peaked that year. Apple expected sales in China to continue at the same level, but when upgrade rates returned to average, Apple had too much inventory in its Chinese sales channels.

Foreign direct investment in India has increased since the start of the reforms, but inflows are still anemic, especially compared with the amount China attracts. In the past fiscal year, India took in about $5.5 billion in foreign direct investment, about 8% of China's $64 billion. Following the loss of the American Colonies, British imperialistic sights looked towards the Far East, and India provided a great deal of wealth for Britain. The British East India Company had control of the most favorable trade routes to the region, and a Royal Charter meant the company had a monopoly on all trade there. Britain gave the company governing power over India and helped supply troops and resources. The East India Company was also able to effectively withstand constant military attacks from local tribes, as the region's people were unable to fight a united front, and the company had acquired a private army of local Indian people who were loyal to British interests. In the mid-19th century, the company's power faded after an armed rebellion against the British occupation and influences in the region. Instead of leading to Indian independence, the rebellion resulted in Britain taking direct control of India, which lasted all the way until 1947. Fifth, a slowdown in the Chinese economy would also mean that global finance and capital would look for new growth centres to invest. By providing an attractive alternative to China, India can have a much bigger pie of global capital, which in any case it needs to fund its huge infrastructure funding requirement. India and China—two massive, neighboring Asian emerging economies, each home to over a billion people—are on the way to forming one of the world's largest trade relationships. According to a study by the PHD Chamber of Commerce, an industry trade group in New Delhi, China has become India's largest trading partner, with Sino-Indian trade reaching $49.5 billion during the first nine months of the current fiscal year. According to the study, China has edged out the United Arab Emirates—India's previous top trading partner—and is comfortably ahead of the US and Saudi Arabia.

India and China have been locked in a border dispute for decades At least 20 Indian soldiers were killed in a clash with Chinese forces in a disputed Himalayan border area, Indian officials.. TAIPEI: Taiwan is looking at Ukraine's ways of communicating its message to the outside world at a time of conflict, by making use of tools such as satellites and deploying humour, the digital minister said on Wednesday. China's war games and blockade drills around Taiwan last month, following a visit to Taipei by US House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, have heightened concerns on the island about the prospect of an attack by its giant neighbour. "We look at the experience of Russia's invasion of Ukraine in February. We found that the whole world can know what is happening there in real time," Audrey Tang, head of Taiwan's new digital affairs ministry, told Reuters. Ukraine had effectively conveyed its message to the world, said Tang, adding that keeping up high-quality communication in real time was critical to its effort. "It's not only for our own people, but also for the people who care about us all over the world, so that we can enlist the assistance of international friends." China views democratically-governed Taiwan as its own territory and has never renounced the use of force to bring it under Beijing's control. Taiwan's government strongly rejects China's sovereignty claims. Among Tang's plans to preserve communications if China attacks are a satellite trial programme worth T$550 million ($18 million) over the next two years to ensure internet services across Taiwan. The goal, she said, was to maintain social stability and keep Taiwan's command systems running by "instantly" switching to alternative forms of communication, such as satellite in middle and lower orbit. Several Taiwan companies are in talks with international satellite service providers, seeking partnerships after such service is legalised in Taiwan, she added, but gave no details. Ukraine has been using Elon Musk's Starlink satellite broadband service, for example. Tang helped craft Taiwan's public messaging for the Covid-19 pandemic, using memes and humour to fight disinformation, much of which the government accused China of spreading, although . India's advantage is that, despite China's superiority in merchant marine, its sea lanes come very close to Indian waters. This would force the Chinese to divert ships used for a blockade to protect their shipping. This is why both countries invest in developing submarines and anti-sub technology.
